Terrible Dam Disaster On Clear Lick, Tennessee.

Special to the Star.
NASHVILLE, TENN., Dec. 11.—Two dams on Clear Lick, thirteen miles from Nashville, broke from their foundations at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, throwing a torrent of water down on to the house of Wm. McCoy.

McCoy, seeing that danger threatened his family, consisting of his wife and three children, two girls and a boy, attempted to remove them. Taking the boy and one girl under his arm and holding the other girl by the hand, he started to wade out to a hill near by.

The mother succeeded in gaining a place of safety, but the child, which the father held by the hand, was washed from his grasp and drowned. He struggled on with the other two children until struck by the drift, which caused him to release his hold upon the boy, who was also drowned.

TRIP TO LOUISVILLE—INCIDENTS LAST NIGHT AT THE FALLS CITY.

Special to the Star.
LOUISVILLE, Dec. 11.—Midnight.—The incidents of the trip from Cincinnati to Louisville by the party of excursionists were few. The train continued to drizzle, the locomotive puffed and the cars rolled on with a motion that was smooth as a ship in a calm. Ex-Mayors Moore and Davis looked serene. Mr. Eggleston, as Chairman of the Committee, placed every body at ease and left them to stay so. Presently refreshments were handed to the wandering babes and everybody was happy.

Ex-Mayor Moore did not bring a bottle of crab-apple, but he brought a flask of pleasant talk and army reminiscences, and everybody forgot the rain. Mr. Shank, of the Louisville Railroad, on board, had made arrangements for a clear road, and we arrived at La Grange, twenty-six miles from Louisville, to find the weather clearing, and at Louisville a streak of auspicious red in the Western sky.

The city owing to the rain had not decorated to any considerable extent, but as evening drew on the streets began to blaze with illumination and Chinese lanterns, colored lights shone and rockets exploded, until Louisville looked like a Chinese feast of lanterns.

The vicinity of Fourth and Jefferson and Green streets, about the Courier-Journal office, Court-house, etc., were fairly illuminated with lights and lanterns and presented a beautiful appearance.

The Committee, accompanied by the band, serenaded the Courier-Journal and the Anzeiger offices, and the residence of Mr. Shank, of the Louisville Short Line Railroad, in the evening; and afterward General Grant, at the Louisville Hotel. Marching through the streets of the city was a work that called forth a variety of comment.

The crowd was immense and the enthusiasm ditto, and the patience of the delegation in being jostled enormous. "Dixie," played by the band, brought cheers above all other tunes, but chiefly from the "man and brother," who kept pace with the procession whenever it moved. At the Louisville Hotel Ben. Eggleston again called for "Dixie," and after this Colonel Berry, of Newport, called for "Yankee Doodle," which elicited a rousing cheer. The Louisville enthusiasm is growing and bids fair to reach the culminating point during the evening. Colonel Berry has obtained from the Quartermaster-General of the State a piece of ordnance which was at LaGrange when we passed and goes up (gratis) over the Short-line railroad to Newport to-night and will be fired by direction of Mr. Berry as soon as General Grant and party are signaled as being at Taylor Station, back of Newport, and until he shall have passed over the river to Cincinnati.

LAST NIGHT'S FESTIVITIES IN LOUISVILLE.

Special to the Star.
LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 11.—7 A. M.—General Grant, after dining with Henry Watterson, of the Courier-Journal, last evening drove with Mrs. Grant and party to the Galt House at 9:30, when, after presentation of the distinguished guests, including the Cincinnati Reception Committee and members of the Cincinnati press, a magnificent ball and banquet was formally opened. Many of the most beautiful ladies in the State were present in superb toilets, and the affair is conceded to have been one of the most recherche affairs ever held in Louisville.

PROGRAMME MODIFIED—COL. FRED. GRANT LEAVES THE PARTY AND POSTMASTER GENERAL KEY JOINS IT.

Special to the Star.
LOUISVILLE, Dec. 11.—8:30 A. M.—The programme heretofore laid out was modified so that the excursion party leaves here at 9 o'clock this morning and reaches Cincinnati at 12:30.

Colonel Fred. Grant and wife leave the party here, and the General and Mrs. Grant, Ex-Postmaster General Tyler and wife, and a lady guest of the latter, only accompany the Cincinnati Committee.

Mrs. Grant is almost worn out with the excitement of her late travels, and will proceed directly to her hotel on arriving in Cincinnati.

THE START FROM LOUISVILLE.

Special to the Star.
LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 11.—9:20 A. M.—The party composed of President Grant and company, the Cincinnati Committee and members of the press, left here at 9 o'clock, and according to the new schedule will reach Cincinnati at 12:30.

NARROWLY ESCAPED AN UPSET.

Special to the Star.
LA GRANGE, KY., Dec. 11.—11:35 A. M.—General Grant's party, which consists only of the General and Mrs. Grant and General Tyler and wife, started at 9:30 a. m. Owing to the awkwardness of the driver, the carriage containing the General narrowly escaped being overturned on arriving at the Louisville depot before starting. Will arrive at 1 o'clock.

CINCINNATI.

The committee held an impromptu meeting on board the cars and passed the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the thanks of the Cincinnati Reception Committee be tendered the officers of the Louisville Short Line R. R. for their courtesies to the Committee in transporting them to and from Louisville, and the very perfect arrangements for the convenience, comfort and pleasure of the party; and the untiring attention of Messrs. J. W. Shanks, John McLeod and S. S. Parker."

"BEN. EGGLESTON, Chairman.
"G. B. JOHNSON, Secretary."

AT THE PUBLIC LANDING.

People anxious to catch a first glimpse of our distinguished guest began gathering at the Public Landing early in the morning. A beautiful arch, after the form of a gate, is erected across the railroad track on the Public Landing, a little west of Sycamore street. The two posts are trimmed with evergreen, and from one to the other run bars bearing the inscriptions, "The Gates of Our City Open," "To Gen. U. S. Grant."

The gate itself is composed of pickets, covered with evergreens, each one bearing a flag.

The train drawing the General and party arrived at this end of the bridge promptly at 12:30 o'clock. After moving off the approach to the bridge engine No. 206, of the Little Miami Railroad, coupled to the train and pulled it down to the Public Landing amid the ringing of the fire-bells and the booming of cannon.

The General stood on the platform next to the engine and loud cheers greeted him all the way along Front street. He responded by raising his hat and bowing. After passing through the gates the engine was uncoupled and pulled out of the way. The mass of people then crowded around the platform, and it was several minutes before the cheering stopped sufficiently for Mr. Eggleston to welcome the General in the following remarks:

General Grant—A Committee composed of all classes of Cincinnati have assigned to me the pleasant duty of tendering you in their name and in their behalf a hearty welcome to your native State. I therefore for myself, for the Committee and for all our people, greet you and bid you welcome to the State. The history of the United States of America since 1861 is the history of Gen. Grant. We desire to pay our respects to Gen. Grant, living or dead, not because you served your country faithfully as its Chief Magistrate for eight years, nor yet because of your eventful travels around the world, but rather because victories in battles, power as the Nation's Chief Magistrate, the plaudits of Kings and Emperors, have not changed your manners and habits from that of a private American citizen. As a soldier and statesman you have been a success. As a traveler you have been a representative of the American people, and doubtless your visits to those countries will prove very beneficial to them, and the United States has been better advertised by your travels than by all our ministers combined. You left our country two and a half years ago, and your course was eastward, in which you continued until your arrival at San Francisco, when you were received with all the honors that a great people could bestow. Your march from California to Ohio has been one continued grand ovation. You are now with us, only twenty-five miles from your birthplace, and we trust when you leave us you will not regret your visit. Again we bid you welcome.

After Mr. Eggleston finished, the cheering was tremendous. Several attempts were made to climb upon the platform and take the General by the hand, and it was with difficulty the police could keep the mass of people from taking possession of the car.

After the formal reception of General Grant the procession, with right resting on Broadway, formed as follows:

MOUNTED POLICE.

Procession Committee.

Visiting Military Companies from Brown County and Covington.

Band.

1st Regiment O. N. G.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Associations of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport, accompanied by the 1st and 24 Kentucky Regimental Association.

Band.

Deutscher Landwehr Verein.

Grand Army of the Republic.

Gen. Grant.

Accompanied by the Mayor and Chairman of the Reception Committee.

Society of Ex-Army and Navy Officers Mounted.

Reception Committee and invited guests in Carriages.

The procession moved north on Broadway to Fourth, west to Main, north to Fifth, west to Walnut, north to Fourth, west to Central avenue, north to Seventh, east to Elm, north to south side of Eighth street, east to Vine, north to Fifteenth, west to Elm, and south to Music Hall.

The following named gentlemen composed the staff of General A. Hickenlooper in the procession:

Col. Wm. P. Anderson.

Col. Max Meier.

Col. J. V. Guthrie.

Capt. A. H. Mattox.

Col. A. C. Sands.

Col. E. Jones.

Maj. Jno. H. Woodward.

Arriving at Music Hall Gen. Grant was escorted to the stage by the Reception Committee. Tannhauser March (Wagner) was rendered by Theodore Thomas' Orchestra and great organ. Geo. W. Whiting, organist.

His Honor, Mayor Jacob, then made the formal address of welcome as follows:

General Grant—The city of Cincinnati bids welcome to you, her distinguished guest. Her citizens feel honored to have in their midst one who rendered great and valuable services to our country when civil war threatened to destroy it, and who, when peace was restored, at the helm of State, enforced such measures that all citizens of the country could enjoy the fruits of the war.

Fellow-citizens—We can not honor our guest too much, for he has ever been ready to respond when his country required his services, either in peace or war, and has been recognized and received by all people and countries as a most worthy representative of the American Republic. Make his stay in our midst a pleasant one, so that he may ever remember his visit to the Queen City of the West with gratification.

General Grant, again on behalf of the citizens of Cincinnati, I welcome you, heartily welcome you. May your stay here be a pleasant one.

General Grant responded as follows:

Mr. Mayor—It is with great gratification that I return once again to my native State. I am further gratified to be received by the citizens of the city and State as I have been here by you and the people of Cincinnati. If I was in the habit of public speaking I could better give expression to the thoughts that fill my mind at this time. Not being accustomed to public speaking, I will extend my heartfelt thanks to the citizens of Cincinnati and the State of Ohio for the greeting through you, and will add what I have had to say on frequent occasions since my return to my own country, that my travels abroad have only seemed to strengthen my love for my own country. My receptions abroad have been highly gratifying to me personally, and a recognition of this great land. Again, Mr. Mayor, I thank the citizens of Cincinnati.

After the General made his reply to the Mayor's welcome he stepped down from the stage and shook hands with the audience as they filed past him. The hall was crowded, the larger part of the audience being ladies. About half an hour was consumed in handshaking, whereupon the General was driven to the Gibson House for dinner.

TO ABOLISH THE RECORD.

Mr. Wells, of West Virginia, it is stated, has prepared a bill which has for its object the abolition of the Congressional Record. Mr. Wells has prepared a statement of the cost of publishing the official record of the debates in Congress, and shows that the amount is far in excess of the practical worth of the document.

Each member and Senator gets twenty-four copies daily free, and is permitted to send them through the mails free. The item of cost in the matter of printing is not, however, quite so important as the fact that but for the free publication of speeches the time of Congress would be cut down one-half at least.
